GERMAN ENTRY INTO LEAGUE LONG DELAYED

PEACEFUL PARLEY OF MANY DISPUTES NOW POSTPONED

FRANCE AND GERMANY, POLAND AND GERMANY, GO OVER

ALSO BELGIUM AND GERMANY, WERE TO HAVE BEEN ARBITRATED

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Geneva, March 17.—The first special session of the League of Nations assembly in the history of that organization adjourned today after unanimously voting to postpone Germany's admission to the League until September when the assembly will meet in regular session.

Failure must be written on the record as the result of the 10 day session which has just ended. Germany has not been admitted to the League. The Locarno agreements for European security which provided for peaceful arbitration of disputes between France and Germany, Poland and Germany and Belgium and Germany, failed of consummation with Germany's failure to get into the League.

These agreements become effective only with Germany's admission. They remain in abeyance, therefore, until September or such time as Germany may become a League member.

Until the moment the postponement vote was recorded, the Germans stood by in their hotel ready to slip out of their traveling clothes and don long tailed, black ceremonial garb for entry into the League. Last moment negotiations had been begun at 9 A. M. to circumvent the stalemate which was preventing Germany's admission. The council met 45 minutes later in a final frenzied effort to dispose of the differences.

An English secretary rushed to the German hotel to warn the delegation that there might be a reprieve.

"We have been asked to remain prepared for all eventualities," Foreign Minister Stresemann told the United Press.

This final effort failed.

Then the smaller powers, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and the Latin American countries canvassed on the assembly floor to organize for battle against adjournment of Germany's admission. Their efforts failed too.

"Germany's application for League membership will not be withdrawn," Stresemann told the United Press. Premier Briand today received a message from the French ambassador to Brazil, saying that President Bernardes refused to relinquish Brazil's claim for a permanent council seat, because it was a matter of "national honor."

LARRY HO IS NOMINATED FOR ST. PAUL MAYORALTY

St. Paul, March 17.—(UP)—Laurence C. Hodgson, former democratic mayor for two terms, and the Rev. Howard Y. Williams, pastor of the People's church and a progressive laborite, were nominated for the mayoralty in city primary elections yesterday.

Frank L. Powers, the third candidate, was eliminated. Unofficial returns showed Hodgson in the lead with Williams second and Powers a close third. There was approximately 2,000 votes difference in the standings.

Incumbent city commissioners were all renominated. William F. Scott was renominated for comptroller and Arthur E. Eggert, present city purchasing agent, opposes him. Judge John W. Finehout of the municipal court was nominated to be opposed by Joseph W. Findley.

When the last returns are in the total vote is expected to reach 50,000.

St. Paul, March 16.—(UP)—Bids on approximately $1,000,000 worth of trunk highway improvements in the state were opened today by C. M. Babcock, highway commissioner. The improvements include pavement, grading and bridge construction.

Bids are to be tabulated at once and successful contractors announced within a few days. The number of bidders is smaller than usual, highway officials said.

Antiadministration Attack on the World Court

SHAMROCKS AS GROWN IN U. S. ARE VOGUE TODAY

Washington, March 17.—(UP)—Shamrocks grown in America are the vogue today, St. Patrick's Day. More than 50,000 packages of growing shamrocks were imported into the United States from Ireland last year, but they were replanted in the United States soil and cultivated for today's occasion, according to the commerce department.

Importation of shamrocks is increasing annually, foreign trade figures showed.

MOTHER FACES MURDER CHARGE AT FAIRMONT

TWO CHILDREN OF MRS. ESTHER
ATZ DIED OF CONVULSIONS

ORGANS OF BOY EXAMINED AND STRYCHNINE REPORTED
FOUND

Fairmont, Minn., March 17.—(UP)—Mrs. Esther Atz, mother of two small children, who died suddenly of convulsions, was in county jail here today facing a first degree murder charge.

Esther, 2, and Raymond, 5, died in mysteriously quick succession, the latter December 14, 1925. Dr. R. C. Hunt had the organs of the boy examined by University of Minnesota analysts.

"Strychnine was found," the report from the medical school said. Sheriff W. S. Carver swore out a warrant late yesterday and Mrs. Atz was arrested.

Officers who made the arrest said she attempted to escape. After being informed of the warrant, she slipped out the kitchen door and started for her automobile in back of the house.

At the county jail here Mrs. Atz protested innocence and declared her arrest was an outrage. She will probably be arraigned Wednesday.

Meanwhile officials said an expert from the university will be brought here to examine the body of the baby girl, who died in May. Both children died while visiting at the home of Mrs. Atz' sister on a farm east of here.

Charles Atz, the father, an automobile mechanic, was killed in a garage explosion here two years ago.

REFUSE TO RAISE HANDS, TWO MEN KILLED BY BANDITS

Cicero, Ill., March 17.—(UP)—A refusal to raise their hands at the command of bandits today cost the lives of two men in a soft drink place here, while a third man was shot and perhaps fatally wounded.

Several swaggering bandits entered the soft drink place of Joseph and Justine Scaligo and started barking commands to everyone to "hoist." The commands were followed shortly by the rapid discharge of several pistols, held by the bandits.

Joseph Scaligo was killed, his brother injured and a negro bystander killed.

The bandits escaped without loot.

HALF MILLION TO BE INVESTED IN SHEEP, 2 STATES

St. Paul, March 17.—(UP)—The Agricultural Credit corporation will invest more than $500,000 for sheep in Montana and North Dakota this year.

Announcement of this resumption of livestock purchases by the credit corporation was made today by N. S. Poole, livestock agent of the Soc Line.

"This decision of the corporation is an indication of the revival of the livestock industry in the northwest," said Poole.

"This expenditure will buy about 45,000 ewes which will be turned over to the Montana and North Dakota farmers. It will be the first large investment in livestock to be made in two years."

Washington, March 17.—(UP)—President Coolidge today sent the nomination of Fred K. Thompson to be postmaster at Superior, Wis., to the senate.

PHANTOM SNIPER TRIAL MAY END LATE TODAY

INDICATED AS THIRD DAY OF
FRANK CARTER'S MURDER
TRIAL OPENED

TERRORIST BEING TRIED ON A DOUBLE MURDER CHARGE

Omaha, Neb., March 17.—(UP)—Prosecution of the phantom sniper probably will end late today, it was indicated as the third day of Frank Carter's murder trial opened.

The terrorist is being tried on a double murder charge, of killing Dr. A. D. Searles and William McDevitt, during his reign in Omaha.

There will be two witnesses for the defense, both alienists, who will attempt to prove Carter is insane, despite the sniper's protestations that he has normal faculties.

One of the alienists, however, will be forced to answer a 4,500 word hypothetical question, which will review Carter's life. This question will tend to prove that Carter is suffering schizophrenia or a split personality.

The state also will offer alienists in rebuttal testimony.

Omaha, March 17.—(UP)—A protesting phantom sniper took the stand here today in an attempt to save the life which he apparently does not want to save.

Frank Carter, the terrorist, who roamed the streets of Omaha for a week sniping from ambush, was called to testify in his own behalf at his trial for the murders of Dr. A. D. Searles and William McDevitt.

"I don't see any reason for all this fuss," Carter grumbled as he mounted the stand at the conclusion of the prosecution testimony. "I am guilty of these murders," he almost shouted. "Why don't the judge just sentence me to the chair and have it all over with?"

John N. Baldwin, his attorney, finally quieted the terrorist and with a nod about the court room, pointed out that it was necessary for Carter to take the stand in order to prove him insane, a paranoiac.

Carter shook his head forcibly when the word insane was mentioned and started as to speak when the court was recessed for luncheon.

SEARS, ROEBUCK MAY PUT BRANCH AT TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, March 17.—(UP)—An option on four acres of property of Thompson Yards, Inc., has been acquired by Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago mail order house, it was learned here today.

The firm is known to have been planning a Twin Cities headquarters for northwest distribution following establishment of a branch here by Montgomery, Ward & Co., but acquisition of the option was the first move. Officers of Sears, Roebuck & Co. said plans for the northwest headquarters were not yet definite.

A special schedule of fines has been arranged for the new cash plan court.

Second offenders are to be tried as usual in traffic court.

3000,000 DAILY VOTING IN THE NEWSPAPER POLLS

FIGURES HAVE BEEN COMPILED BY THE UNITED PRESS

DAY

(Copyright, 1926, by United Press)

New York, March 17.—(UP)—Participants in newspaper polls on prohibition are entering their votes on possible modification of the Volstead act at the rate of more than 3,000,000 daily, according to figures gathered by the United Press today.

Present indications are that by Saturday, when the climax of the balloting will be reached, approximately 3,500,000 votes will have been received by the newspapers who have joined in the three large country-wide units conducting the polls.

Since at least a score of newspapers have held individual polls, the total vote may reach 4,000,000 or about one eighth of the normal presidential election returns.

To 11 A. M. today the United Press tabulation shows 63,190 for prohibition and 657,020 for change.

FLAMES ROAR THROUGH OLD TENEMENT

DRIVE MORE THAN 100 OCCU-
PANTS TO CHICAGO
STREETS

FOUR LIVES LOST, ALL THE VIC-TIMS BEING NEGROES

Chicago, March 17.—Flames roared through a large old tenement building on Chicago's south side early today, taking a toll of four lives and driving more than 100 occupants to the street. All the victims were negroes.

The fire started in the basement and quickly made its way through the floors, filling the old building with smoke and flames.

Two persons suffered fractured skulls in attempting to leap to safety. One of these died shortly after. Several others were less seriously injured.

WILD PARTY MEANS FINES OF $11.50 EACH

Gladstone, Mich., March 17.—(UP)—Eight local youths and three Escanaba girls entered pleas of guilty to charges of breaking into a building in the down town section here, when arraigned in justice court and paid fines of $11.50 each.

Their arrest followed a party staged Saturday night in an empty building in the business district.

The party is said to have become so boisterous that police took a hand and placed all the participants under arrest.

Killed Self With Own Hammer South Holland, Ill.—Jacob Kramer was using a heavy sledge hammer in driving stakes at a new real estate division. He made a mighty backward swing, the hammer caught in a wire and fell from midair, hitting Kramer on the head. He died 15 minutes later.

NEGRO HELD FOR ATTACKING WHITE WOMAN

STATE POLICE DRAW CORDON
ABOUT JAIL, WILLIAMSON,
W. VA.

SAWYER PROBABLY WILL BE SENTENCED TOMORROW,
FACING EXECUTION

Williamson, W. Va., March 17.—(UP)—After an all night vigil state police with the coming of dawn today drew a tighter cordon about the county jail where Harry Sawyer, 30 year old negro, is held for attacking Mrs. Cullen Amburgey, white woman. Although the guards were thrown about the jail as an emergency, all signs of mob violence had dissolved with the coming of dawn. Incensed citizens who gathered, dispersed in orderly fashion after learning Sawyer had pleaded guilty.

Sheriff Alexander Bishop addressed the mob, warning against violence and promising the state would exact quick justice. The angry citizens dispersed and returned to their homes.

Sawyer probably will be sentenced tomorrow. He faces execution.

Williamson took on the aspect of a feudal city on learning of the attack. Sawyer was captured but accused another negro. After 10 hours' grilling, the negro confessed and the already irate mob became more menacing. Fearing violence, Sheriff Bishop called in a troop of state police and augmented this guard with a corps of special deputies.

Mrs. Amburgey was recovering rapidly today.

BROUGHT INTO COURT, SENTENCED TO HANG

Williamson, W. Va., March 17.—While state police maintained a careful vigil to prevent mob violence, Harry Sawyer, 30 year old negro, was brought into court here today, indicted, tried and sentenced to hang for attacking Mrs. Cullen Amburgey, a white woman.

The entire procedure required less than 30 minutes. A special grand jury was convened and Sawyer, under heavy guard, was taken directly to the court house. He entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to hang at dawn April 10.

Fearing mobs, who threatened to storm the jail and seize Sawyer during the night, authorities stationed a cordon of state police about the jail and court house. These were augmented by a corps of special deputies.

HODGE EXTRADITION HEARING IS SET FOR FRIDAY

Minneapolis, March 17.—(UP)—Whether the attorney general's office will assist in presenting the state's case against Mrs. Mayme Hodge, held at La Crosse, Wis., in connection with the death of the Rev. K. B. Birkenland, before the Hennepin county grand jury, will be made known today.

County Attorney Floyd B. Olson asked the attorney general to assist, after an investigation of the case was demanded by Minneapolis police. The state officer said he would make known the attitude of his department, after considering the request.

The attorney general's office took charge of extradition proceedings at the request of former friends of the dead minister.

Mrs. Hodge is wanted here on a charge of murder. She is said to be the Mae Reynolds who had tenanted the apartment where Birkenland's body was found up to the time of his disappearance. An extradition hearing is scheduled for Friday at Madison, Wis.

Lincoln, Neb., March 17.—(UP)—The badly beaten body of Mrs. Frank Sharp, 48, was found in her husband's automobile near here today and her husband was lodged in jail in connection with the killing.

Sharp's arrest followed the finding of his wife's body.

A short while before Sharp had told police that bandits held him up, gagged and bound him and stole his automobile and kidnapped his wife.

NEXT WAR A STRUGGLE FOR WORLD TRADE

SIR ESME HOWARD, BRITISH
LUNCHEON

MOST WARS AND DISPUTES HAVE HAD ECONOMIC CAUSES

Chicago, March 17.—(UP)—The next war will be caused by the struggle for world trade and markets, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, declared at a luncheon at the Association of Commerce here today.

Though wars and national disputes had always had economic causes, these trade factors will be even more important in this century of commercialism, in the ambassador's opinion.

He predicts that business men rather than professional diplomats would conduct the actual international relations of the future, adding that thorough understanding of economics is now the most important equipment of the diplomat.

If foreign statesmen want to understand future world trends they must visit America where the future "can be scanned more closely than in any other part of the world," he said.

SEEKING PROBATION FOR COL. FORBES AND J. W. THOMPSON

Chicago, March 17.—(UP)—Motions seeking probation for Colonel Charles R. Forbes and John W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, who are under sentence for fraud in connection with the building of government hospitals, will be filed in the federal court of appeals here next week.

F. B. Johnston, St. Louis attorney, made this announcement here today. He said the motions would be filed as soon as the mandate from the United States supreme court, which recently ruled the two must serve their sentences, reaches Chicago. It will be based on the ground that both men are too ill to serve their sentences.

PAROLED FIRST OF YEAR, BACK IN REFORMATORY

St. Paul, March 17.—(UP)—Rene Thayer, 26, paroled from St. Cloud reformatory soon after the first of the year, was back in jail here today under suspicion of robbing the Newport, Minn., post office last Sunday night. He is also believed to have robbed a grocery, filling station and depot at Newport. The charges are the same as those which sent him to the reformatory in 1924.

Postal inspectors are investigating the case and will probably prosecute Thayer. If so, the other charges will be dropped. Most of the loot from the burglaries was taken with the arrest, police said.

Winnipeg, Man., March 17.—(UP)—Annie Cardeno, 50, police court character, was scalded to death late today when boiling water was poured over her head. Dan Proskow is being held by the police, who claim that the woman's death followed a drunken revel at her home.

Proskow reported the woman's death to the police, claiming that he returned to the house to find her on the floor dead. When the police arrived they found the woman's face and scalp parboiled.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD LEADS SECOND ASSAULT MADE

FARMER LABORITE OF MINNESOTA OPENS BARRAGE AT CHICAGO TONIGHT

CARRIES ON FROM THE ATTACK
LAUNCHED BY SENATORS
BORAH AND REED

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 17.—The second attack of the anti-administration forces against the world court will be sounded in the middle west tonight with Senator Henrik Shipstead, farmer laborite of Minnesota, commanding the barrage.

Choosing as his subject, "How to Keep Out of the World Court," Shipstead will carry on from the attack launched several weeks ago by Senator Borah, Idaho, republican, and Senator Reed, Missouri, democrat. Anti-court foes promise there will be a plentiful crowd on hand to receive the anti-administration message.

Shipstead's hop to the Chicago meeting is marked as the final drive in Illinois to turn voters from the candidacy of Senator William B. McKinley, staunch Coolidge republican. It is also conceded as a drive for the anti-court factions, who are running in other states of the middle west now having senatorial campaigns on the court and anti-court idea. There will be no trumpet, such as was accorded Borah and Reed, when Shipstead visits here today and tonight. However, the anti-court campaigners plan it as a signal for the final drive for Colonel Frank L. Smith, who is making the drive for republican nomination to the senate on a strictly anti-court basis.

Smith boosters, coupled with the anti-court boosters of other middle western states, are planning on having several other prominent anti speakers here within the next few weeks to tear down administration good feeling built up by the recent visits of Secretary Hoover and Senator Reed of Pennsylvania.

ILSE NIEMACK PLEASES HEARERS

Violin Artist Plays Interesting Program With Technique And Feeling

MUSICAL CLUB AUSPICES

Stella Steel as Piano Accompanist Showed Mastery in Giving Assistance to Artist

The concert of Ilse Niemack on Saturday afternoon was a success from every point of view. The concert was arranged by the Brainerd Musical club and presented at the First Congregational church.

Miss Niemack presented to the eye a very charming picture of a pretty young lady in a pretty green gown, and played on a violin of beautiful tones a very interesting program with a technique and feeling that left little to be desired. She had her audience from her first number—Wieniawski's concerto in D minor—which she played with a due appreciation of the different moods expressed in the three movements.

Her second group began with Burleigh's Hills, which left you with a vision of towering heights and great serenity. Mendelssohn's Wings of Song moved with a depth of feeling and power that reminded one of a great church service. Debussy's Les plus que lente and her own scherzo and the final mazurka of Zarzky all gave her ample opportunity to display her very fine technique and complete mastery of the bow. After hearing her the audience could readily understand the tribute that she had from her European critics in regard not only to her handling of her violin, but also to the very real feeling she put into the interpretation of the various compositions.

She gave her audience some very interesting encores including the old negro spiritual "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," and "Indian Snake Dance." In this she showed a good knowledge of psychology, for there are few things that please an audience more than old, well loved melodies that they would not, perhaps, want in the main program, but which they do most thoroughly enjoy.

No account of the concert would be complete without due tribute to the accompanist, Stella Steel, who gave that sympathetic assistance which has so much to do with a violinist's success. The piano notes gave her the opportunity to show her own very complete mastery of the instrument, and in the Indian snake dance the performance was more of a duet than just the subordinated background for the violin.

Mrs. D. E. Whitney, the president of the club, made a few well chosen remarks before the meeting in which she regretted that Madame Cutter was snowbound in Little Falls last Sunday, but stated that Mr. Culbertson had written that it might be possible to arrange for someone even more interesting to come a little later. Any change will be duly made public, and the members are asked to watch the Dispatch for notices. The night school work at the high school was praised and the work done there highly commended. The citizenship committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Opsahl served refreshments after the regular meeting last week.

BRAINERD ITEMS

Attorney Basil T. Heath was up from Brainerd Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson of Graff were in town Tuesday on their way to Brainerd, where Mrs. Nelson's father, Ole Monson, is in a hospital. It was thought likely he would have to undergo an operation, which would be serious at his age of 80 years.

Dr. A. B. Rosenfield was in the county seat between trains Saturday.

Miss Hazel Anderson was in Brainerd Saturday and Wednesday to have dental work done.

Oscar Olson broke a needle off in his index finger Thursday of last week. After considerable probing failed to locate it, he went to Brainerd Monday and had X-rays taken, which showed it imbedded close to the bone. Dr. Rosenfield took it out Tuesday evening.

Anton Munson is having a severe time with his hand. Some time ago he cut it, and before it was healed he crushed it between two cakes of ice. Blood poisoning developed and after it was checked, the finger would not heal, and it was thought it might be necessary to amputate it if the bone is injured. He went to Brainerd Tuesday for an X-ray. This showed the bone to be infected, and Dr. Rosenfield amputated the finger Wednesday under a local anesthetic. The loss of this finger is a particularly severe one for he had already lost one of the other fingers on the same hand, and one of the remaining ones is so stiff as to be practically useless.

NEW OIL TRUCK HERE

Northwestern Oil Co. Buys Graham Bros. Truck From Rosko Bros., Arrived Sunday

The new oil truck of the Northwestern Oil Co., purchased through the Rosko Bros. agency in this city, has arrived and is now in use.

The truck shows a departure from the ordinary run of oil truck bodies, having a special arrangement immediately behind the cab for the carrying of barrels. This barrel rack is lower than the ordinary rack, being on a level with the frame, in easy lifting height. The body was built especially for the local company at Superior.

The engine is a Dodge Bros. motor, housed in a Graham Bros. chassis. This is the first Graham Bros. truck in Brainerd with the standard shift. This truck is one of two similarly built trucks for oil delivery in the northwest. The only other truck like it is at Superior. It has a 158 inch wheelbase, compared with 140 inch base of other trucks. F. H. O'Brien and F. E. Little, of the local oil company drove the truck to Brainerd from Superior over the week end. Mr. Little will be the driver in delivery around Brainerd.

BUILDING an automobile business without service is like trying to build a house without a foundation—it can't be done.

Our service is as dependable as the Studebaker cars we sell. We believe in service—it is the foundation of our business.

To us—good service means expert workmen, Studebaker trained; modern equipment; courtesy; promptness and fair prices. Our charges are made on a flat-rate basis. We tell you what the work will cost before you leave your car. And we do the work right the first time.

In our opinion there isn't a car built that requires less service than a Studebaker. The average cost of repair parts is only $10 per car a year. On the rare occasion when adjustment is necessary you will find us ready. Investigate our service before you invest your money in any car.

THE BREEDER'S PROBLEM

EDWARD A. NELSON, of Route 2, Box 64, has written the DISPATCH a letter, using as his topic, "The Breeder's Problem." In introducing his experiences in dairying, Mr. Nelson observed that while we probably had in mind the writing of articles on farming methods or policies, still he felt that his article on breeding is a specific farm problem which every farmer must meet and solve if he intends to milk cows for profit. Dairying is the main source of income for most farmers in this territory and so dairy problems assume an importance of major proportions.

"Almost a score of years ago," says Mr. Nelson, "we purchased our first pure bred dairy sire and crossed him on just plain common cows. As the years passed, sire succeeded sire. We aimed to purchase each succeeding one out of larger and yet larger record dams in an effort to push our herd's average production to constantly higher levels. In spite of this care in selection it appeared to us that we were not making as rapid progress as we should. Then we began scrutinizing our barn records as well as the breed's records being made elsewhere in an effort to locate a 'short cut' to our breeding operations. We learned some very interesting facts, some of which we enumerate here.

"A great number of cows with exceptionally high records themselves have failed to transmit their own great producing ability to their offspring. They have given birth to quite ordinary sons and daughters. On the other hand, we found dams whose records were duplicated and even bettered for generations by their progeny. In them producing capacity, i. e. transmitting ability, were combined to really improve the breed.

"With these facts in mind we are now endeavoring to locate in our herd the individuals which are able to transmit or pass on their own good milking qualities to their offspring.

"With our limited space, feed and help we cannot hope to develop all of our heifers much as we would like to. We must of necessity sell some before they are of milking age. Often we have sold the better one and kept the poorer one, unwittingly of course. Too late we realized our error.

"When we can determine which of our cows is dropping calves with high priced production possibilities in them and which cows are not, then we remove some of the gamble in selling heifers and at the same time speed up the improvement of our herd average.

"This same rule applies in purchasing a sire. It is not enough for his dam to boast of a high milk record. The pedigree must show in addition a capacity to pass on this high producing ability, otherwise we are forced to consider it a weak pedigree.

"The farmers of Crow Wing county are investing yearly large sums for the purchase of pure bred dairy stock and they will do well to heed this trend of the times to judge the true worth of an animal by its breeding capacity rather than by its producing ability alone as has been done too often in the past."

THE PULLMAN SURCHARGE

TRAVELINGMEN are taking a decided stand against the Pullman surcharge. Representative M. O. McLaughlin of Nebraska has introduced a bill for repealing the surcharge. It amends section 1 of the Interstate Commerce Act, providing that it shall be unlawful for any such carrier to demand, charge, or collect from any person for transportation, subject to the provisions of this act, in any parlor car or sleeping car, any fare in addition to that demanded, charged, or collected for transportation in a day coach, but this shall not prevent just and reasonable charges for the use of accommodations in parlor cars or sleeping cars by companies owning such cars.

"You will recall," writes Congress McLaughlin, "that adverse action was taken on the Pullman surcharge repeal during the closing hours of the sixty-eighth Congress.

"Had those interested in the repeal of the surcharge been as active at that time as were the railroads and their representatives, in my judgment the bill would have become a law."

The congressman is hoping that all travelingmen will arrange to send letters and telegrams to the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, of which Congressman J. S. Parker is chairman, so constantly and in such volume that action on this important measure will be forced in the near future. The fight for the bill will be harder than ever to win, because it was lost last winter.

DECLINE IN BUTTER PRICES CHECKED

ACCORDING to a report of the government bulletin, "Crops and Markets," under date of March 6th, prices of butter in foreign markets were generally higher on February 26 than at any time since the break in the London market early in December.

The New York quotation of 45 cents on 92 score butter was higher than in recent weeks, but the previous decline from the early December level had not been so steady as in European markets. The Copenhagen official quotation on February 25 was equivalent to 41.9 cents, or only 3 cents below New York, while Danish in London was less than 2 cents below.

New Zealand, salted, showed a smaller increase over the previous week to 38 cents, and Australian remained at about 36 cents. The London market is reported as quiet, but with shipments from Australia and New Zealand, again much lighter, the market has gained sufficient strength to check the recent butter shipments to United States markets.

On March 13 the government report will review the effect of President's Coolidge's executive order increasing the tariff rate on butter fifty per cent.

THERE has been some talk of a monster mass meeting to ask the warring factions in the village of Backus to accept the olive branch. The Backus Tribune thinks that the idea is a good one, and that it will be needed after election. The Pillager Herald suggests taking the grievances to the World Court.

THE Prince of Wales has ordered American bath tubs put in one of his palaces. The English government offices are using American typewriters.

Most men mistake being alive for living.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"THE GOOD DIE YOUNG"

Of course!

For it is only the good who stay young.

This proverb indicates that the good cannot live in this evil old world, that only the wicked and selfish persist.

On the contrary, nothing causes men to grow old prematurely like evil living. He who keeps his soul clean and his mind pure is living very near to the fountain of youth.

Crime is the poorest paid profession in the world. Men cannot go wrong and stay young.

Watch the fugitive from justice, skulking from one hiding place to another, a price upon his head, every man's hand against him, afraid to trust even his best friend, starting in terror at every knock on the door, venturing out only at night when honest men are sitting beside their own hearth stones, fear, terror and suspicion in his soul. Can such a one be young?

Age is not a matter of birthdays—it is a spirit.

He who lives so that he has no fear when an old neighbor moves to town, who can read the morning paper without a fear that "something has been published," who can look deep into the eyes of his little child without shame, has something of the secret of perpetual youth in his soul.

Cynicism, pessimism and suspicion are the sins of old age. Enthusiasm, hope and trustfulness are the virtues of youth. He who has the former will be old at twenty. He who cultivates the latter will be young at ninety.

The good die young because they stay young.

The Mowby Twins

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

EVERETT and Ernest Mowby were twins, and most people could not tell them apart; but Ida Claridge said there was very little resemblance between them; it was surprising people could not see how superior Everett was to Ernest. Ida was eighteen. The Mowby twins had just come to twenty-one—an age at which any normally constituted boy knows more than he ever will again. And both Everett and Ernest knew that they were in love with Ida.

As frequently happens in the case of twins their mental processes were connected by some mysterious link which resulted in a similarity as striking as their physical resemblance. "By the Sacred Fire of Onondaga," said Everett one day: "I am going down to New York and make a fortune and come back and marry Ida Claridge. There is no chance for a fellow in this burgh."

"And I'll go with you," said Ernest. So Everett had a very tender parting with Ida and Ernest had a very formal one—for had she not chosen Everett instead of himself and could one twin be disloyal to another?

Everett and Ernest went to the big city—and they succeeded in their schemes for its spoliation. Also they grew to look more and more alike. Ida and Everett had promised to write each other often.

But at the end of the second year the exchange of missives had become fitful and intermittent—the pulse of love was skipping beats in an alarming manner.

The fact was that Everett had looked upon Agnes Carr and had seen that she was fair. Also he had looked up her father's rating in Bradstreet's and had found it more than fair. And here came the first divergence in the mental processes of the twins. Or, maybe, the divergence had nothing to do with mental processes. As far as Ida Claridge was concerned their egoes were twins no longer. Finally Ernest probed Everett as to the true situation. Everett frankly acknowledged that his love for the fair Ida had evaporated, or flown away, or something—anyway he could not find it lying around anywhere.

"And you still correspond?" asked Ernest.

"Oh, once in a while," replied Everett. "But I guess Ida is as tired of the business as I am and is only prevented from telling me so by a fear of hurting my feelings. I'd tell her myself that we had better drop it—only a man can't do that very well, you know. A proposition of that kind has got to come from the lady."

"Let's see—we have been here four years now," said Ernest. "I think I will take a trip up home next week. There's none of our folks living there now, to be sure—but I would rather like to see the old place again." And pursuant to this declaration up state went Ernest. The first thing he did upon his arrival in the old home town was to seek out Ida Claridge. He found her sitting in a hammock, swung in the apple orchard, at one side of the house—and the apple trees were all in bloom. With the toe of one dainty little shoe just touching the ground she swung herself to and fro meditatively. The sunbeams came dancing down through the trees and tangled themselves in her hair; her pink and white complexion vied with the blossoms swaying above her; her dreamy blue eyes—in short four years had transformed a rather gawdy girl into a beautiful young woman. But to Ernest she had not changed a bit—she had always been beautiful to him.

"Oh, Everett," she cried, "how you startled me. I should have known you anywhere. I was just thinking of you two boys. Sit right down here and tell me all about Ernest—and about yourself, of course."

"I am Ernest," said he. For some reason Ida seemed rather relieved and laughed pleasantly. "Well," said she, "tell me about yourself then—and about Everett."

For some reason Ida seemed rather relieved and laughed pleasantly. "Well," said she, "tell me about yourself then—and about Everett."

course. You know Everett and I used to fancy we were in love with each other—when we were children. My, but I am glad to see you."

Ernest stayed in the old town three weeks; at the end of which time Ida told him: "It was only after you and Everett had been away a while, and I began to realize that it was you that I was thinking about oftenest, that I woke up to the fact it was the Ernest twin and not the Everett one that I was really in love with."

When they wrote to Everett announcing their engagement he sent them a magnificent wedding present and his blessing—and proposed to Agnes Carr the same night.

Famous Mountains

The name "Pillars of Hercules" was given by the ancient Greeks and Romans to Calpe and Abyla, two mountains, standing, the one in Europe and the other in Africa, on opposite sides of the strait connecting the Mediterranean sea and the Atlantic ocean. They are known respectively at the present day as the Rock of Gibraltar and Jebel Zaitout.

According to tradition, these mountains were raised by Hercules, while on his journey in search of the oxen of Geryones. They were long regarded by the ancients as marking the extreme western limit of the habitable world.—Kansas City Times.

Clever Police Work

Credited to Italian

For a month to be convicted of murder seems incredible, but this actually happened. After giving a dinner party the Princess Caravella of Naples went to lie down in order to refresh herself for a dance, and later was found shot through the heart. Suspicion pointed to her husband, who was known to be of a jealous disposition, and he was arrested. The fact that the pistol was found lying near the dead woman seemed incongruous, but the husband would probably have been convicted but for the shrewdness of a Naples police officer.

He found a huge moth lying on the floor by the bedside. A lighted candle had stood on the bedside table where the pistol lay, and the moth had been singed in the flame. He also found dust from the moth's wings on the trigger of the pistol, which was also proved to work with exceptional ease, whilst the pistol lay in such a position that it covered the woman's heart.

It was argued in court that the moth had burned its wings and had fallen on the table, where, writhing and fluttering, its wings had struck the trigger and the pistol had been fired. On this evidence the prince was acquitted.

Music Shown to Have

Odd Effect on Hair

If all the violinists in the world assembled together in one vast building, and they numbered, say, 100,000, it is probable that there would be but 100 among them with bald heads. But if the same number of brass instrument players were inspected, bald heads would be as common as flies in summer time!

If you doubt this, make a point of observing the heads of the orchestras in the cinemas or theaters you patronize.

Scientists declare that the playing of stringed instruments induces hair growth. A series of experiments on the partly bald has proved that stringed music has power to raise a hairy crop!

Cornet and horn players lose their hair early; theirs is the wrong sort of music from the hirsute point of view. The explanation advanced is that the physical strain of blowing affects the circulation and deprives the roots of the hair of their due supply of blood.

From Pirate to King

The discovery of the Indians who speak Elizabethan English is one of the strangest travelers' stories ever heard in these days. It is not, however, quite unique, for the late Mr. Cecil Sharp found in the Alleghanies numerous communities of English folk whose language, appearance and customs dated from the end of the Seventeenth century, and who had preserved a large number of English folk-songs that are no longer to be heard in the mother country.

Nor were private communities of the kind set up by Benjamin Sharp and his crew altogether unique, for we possess records of the famous English pirate, John Plainlain, who, having begun his career of crime in the West Indies, founded a state on Madagascar of which he conquered a considerable part.

Horses "Inside Out"

According to a French technical publication devoted to the horse breeding industry, a Chinese visitor was recently taking notes at a prize stock farm in France. When he reached the stable where 20 fine horses were standing in their stalls, the celestial turned to the owner.

"I cannot understand," said he, "why you Europeans always put your animals in their stalls inside out."

"Inside out!" exclaimed the breeder. "Exactly. You stable them with their noses to the wall. They cannot see anything, are easily frightened and are apt to kick. In my country we turn them around so that they can see what is going on and who is approaching them. You westerners always start at the wrong end of things."—From La Bulgaria, Sofia. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Churches in Business

An old Jewish synagogue in Maiden lane, London, is now used as a theater for rehearsals, and a Methodist chapel in Southwark, where Wesley preached, is used as a paper warehouse.

The famous Surrey chapel, where Rowland Hill preached, is today the great boxing rendezvous known as the Ring. At Willesden an old chapel has been converted into a draper's establishment, the pulpit being used as the cash desk; another, in the Hampstead road, has been turned into a picture palace.

The Union Jack club, opposite Waterloo station, stands on the site of a Methodist chapel which had lost its worshippers, while St. Andrew's, Tavistock place, was once a fashionable church, but has been in turn a cycle store and a club.—London Answers.

Grenade Duel Fails

In Germany two university students, each seeking the hand of a comely girl in marriage, decided they would have to fight it out in a duel. They chose hand grenades as weapons, paced off the required distance and when the referee dropped the handkerchief they each threw. The grenades went sailing through the air but nothing happened. Two other grenades were offered them and these exploded, but only spattered mud on the duelists. They then decided to allow the girl to choose.

Stories as Told Place

Parrots in New Role

To illustrate his belief in the future life of animals, Mr. Elliott O'Donnell recently told the following stories to the London Times:

A lady living in Hampstead had a parrot of which she was very fond. One of her servants in a fit of rage killed it. The following day the lady was at a party, and she noticed that one of the guests, a gentleman and a stranger to her, was staring at her. Later on he was introduced, and he said to her: "Do you know why I was staring at you? It was because I saw a parrot sitting on the arm of your chair and after a while vanish." The gentleman then described the parrot he had seen, and convinced the lady that it was the ghost of her killed pet.

Mr. O'Donnell next referred to a parrot belonging to an undertaker who had the bird for 28 years. One day it remarked to him, "You are going to die soon," and a few hours afterward the bird itself died. Two or three days later the undertaker died. At the inquest held on him, reference was made to this incident, and the query was raised, "Do parrots understand and are they clairvoyant?"

New health in Tanlac

"I suffered agony for eight years, due to gas on stomach. Eating caused knife-like pains to shoot through me. Tanlac was a Godsend for today I eat well, sleep sound and am rejuvenated." Mrs. John Galla, 1121 Gardner St., Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

This statement merely backs up what over one hundred thousand grateful users have said about Tanlac. Our files are packed with such testimony.

If your system is run down, if you can't seem to eat or sleep, have lost weight or suffer from trying pain, why not let Tanlac start you back to vigorous strength and health.

No long, wretched wait to get results! Tanlac starts right in to build you up. It cleans the blood, revitalizes digestive organs, fixes up the liver and makes you feel like a new person. For constipation take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

every trip came some curiosity. One day a ship returned from Central America, and the master showed Mackintosh an elongated yellow fruit that grew in clusters.

Mackintosh regarded it warily; the ship was half-full of such cargo, and his Scotch prudence was aroused. Even after he had eaten one and pronounced it delicious, he was not certain they could be sold.

"What do you call them?" he inquired of the skipper.

"The natives call them bananas," the sailor answered.

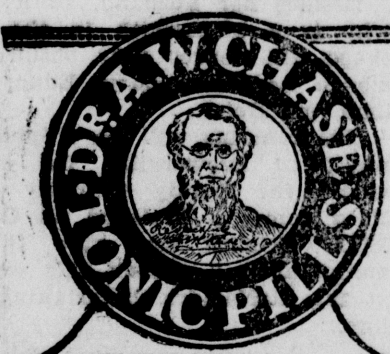

Mackintosh put them up for sale, and a few curiosity seekers bought a bunch or so. He harangued their quality and tried to impress upon the Bostonians the deliciousness of the fruit. But his venture failed.

The late Nebuchadnezzar, ancient king of Babylon, who saw the famous handwriting on the wall, was no modest violet. A bit of autobiography he had inscribed on a cylinder 2,500 years ago and securely sealed in the wall of an ancient temple for posterity to dig up and read, now reposes in the Carnegie museum at Pittsburgh. Several of the opening paragraphs are gems of modest praise. He goes on to say: "I am Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, the great, the mighty, the favorite of Marduk (Babylonian God), the ruler who knows no weariness." Then he expatiates at great length on what a builder of temples and walls, "mountain high," canals and other structures he is, and adds, "may the wise men after me, read of all my works which I have written upon the tablet." Nebuchadnezzar was taking no chances of posterity neglecting to give him credit where credit was due.—Cappper's Weekly.

WORLD'S CHAMPION
AMATEUR TYPIST

Oh! Gee! Look at his fingers go! Such were the remarks exclaimed by the much interested faculty and students. Last week we had the great pleasure of having Mr. Howard Pfrommer, world's champion amateur typist, demonstrate to us methods of typewriting.

Of course, we all aren't going to be professional typists, but learning a few facts now and then won't harm the best of students. Mr. Pfrommer, as a representative of the Underwood Typewriting Company, stated that typewriting was not a question of brain power, but a thorough knowledge of the keyboard, physical development of the fingers and correct habits counted a great deal for a successful typist. Then in a brief way, he explained that habit, rhythm and concentration were the most essential facts for a person who is learning to typewrite.

After having concluded giving a few of the main facts, Mr. Pfrommer then proceeded to demonstrate the typing of a lesson. With amazed faces, we stared on, watching his fingers go. Gee, how they flew over the keys. Also in a very amusing way, he demonstrated his ability in concentration by carrying on a conversation when typing. With Miss Smith asking questions such as, "Where are you going from here?" "Where are you from?" We certainly give the typist three cheers for his wonderful exhibition on concentrating and hope that some day in the near future, we may acquire some of that mental power.

As Mr. Pfrommer finished his demonstration, he said that any one wishing to enter the typewriting contest at St. Paul must do a lot of hard, intensive work and everyone interested was given the opportunity of getting information on how to train for it.

Who? What? Where?

A bright ray of light suddenly burst into the assembly on Tuesday morning. At first some thought it might be the sun which had escaped from its usual position and had darted into the assembly. For some time it was so brilliant that it nearly blinded you. Finally when our eyes got accustomed to its brilliance, we examined it more carefully and found that it was only Miss O'Brien sporting a new red sweater.

Sylvia Erickson received a letter from a French girl who is just learning to speak English. One of the sentences reads this way: "I me bespeak will to photograph shortly and I you send too one photograph."

Mr. Schaumburg left for Alexandria Friday morning to see the regional contest.

We surely gave our boys a good send-off. We stood out in the cold with no overcoats, hats or rubbers. Some of us were even too excited to put on coats.

Our beloved trophy, the silver basketball, stands in the middle of the assembly platform. As it was the first we have ever won, we ought to take good care of this one.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosel are the proud parents of a baby boy, born Monday morning. No wonder he has such a pleasant smile!

and knocked down the mayor and some of the others just as if she were a big auto. On and on we went. I tried hard to get away. I called until I couldn't call any more. My voice didn't seem to make any noise. I was nearly frozen, my clothes were tearing. Why didn't someone help me?

I was almost ready to give up and die when along came that big snow-plow. I knew Coppers would get out of the way of that big thing and then maybe I could get loose. On and on came that big thing and straight for it ran Coppers. Bang! Smash! Where am I now? Gosh, it's cold! Gee I'm freezing to death here. Where's Coppers?

"Edward Lewis Allan, I might have known that you would be cutting capers tonight!"

Sounded like mother's voice somewhere far away.

So Coppers was cut to pieces; I suppose she was dead now. I was almost dead too.

"Get up from that floor this minute and get back into your bed. You'll freeze there with that window wide open, and you've torn your pajamas, and let go of that pillow why are you hanging onto it so far? You have your blankets all wrapped around your neck."

No mistaking the voice now. "Next time that you get into the mince pie before you go to bed you'll be spanked."

Gosh! Coppers was in the barn and she wasn't dead. The clock struck two times. Twelve hours and the fellows would all have their dogs lined up for the big race. I'll bet I'll get there in time so I don't have to take number 13.

"I'm all covered up now mother. You can snap out the light."

Found

At last, after many years of research and toil, it has been found. To all the scientific world has been disclosed one of the most wonderful things yet discovered. It will, it is hoped, hearten all scientists and fellow workers to plod on with their weary tasks, and hope that they too may discover, and be helped by another of these almost unbelievable wonders. It was discovered early one morning by a group of toiling workers. They were almost worn out by their so far, unrewarded labors, when—Lo and Behold! it appeared.

Now, with refreshed and lightened spirits they of the honorable group, are ready to disclose that great discovery to the public. It was—a teacher with a kind heart!

The English II students, represented as those toiling scientists, were, the first period one morning, surprised and delighted by an announcement by Miss Bowers, represented, with no disrespect intended, as that wonderful, that she would allow them to take their six weeks quiz over. On account of the great number of low marks, you may be sure that all but a very few, those with high marks, very readily agreed. They all appreciated fully the work she was taking upon herself too, for the morning after the quiz they were to get their reports; and we can all understand how much work that must have meant. Of course we always thought she was that kind hearted; but now we are happier still to say that our opinion is justified.

Mr. Gridley—"Walter, can you tell us about nuts. There are several around here."

Miss Hall—"To what race do the Philippines belong?"
Clarence W.—"To the Mongrels."

LITTLE BERTRAM AND THE GANG SEE THE BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Oh my yes, we saw Our Gang fight and win the big silver apple and we have let the world in on the fact since, too, but the tournament with its howling mobs, glaring lights and array of teams is one of the least things we did see. We—aw, well, I'll tell you the whole thing, just like it happened, without no embellishments nor horsin' around. But it sure is one frost-bitten, chill-blain-rousing, ten-nights-in-a-hotel-lobby tale about the wide open spaces where men are basket-ball enthusiasts and blizzards ain't nothin' out of the inside of a chicken. Gloom is the only thing we didn't have nothin' of. We all had a wonderful time, of course, we just wanta impress ya with the hardships we endured. They only added to the fun, but then you know how it is. This is it.

On Friday, at approximately one o'clock me and the gang with an eye to missin' half a day of school, an' also getting in on some excitement and fun started for Crosby in the truck. There was four of us in the front seat and if we had had more than the $2.75 per that we did have we couldn't have all gotten in. Besides there were three more in the back. We got to Crosby all right about 2 P. M. We permeated the downtown district until game time when we adjourned to the high school. After vain attempts to jew the ticket fella down we succumbed and bought our tickets at the quoted prices. We saw the Brainerd Motley game and sorta moaned. Things wasn't all they should be. The Pine River-Aitkin game came next. We watched it with reviving interest because it was a good game and the victor would play Brainerd on the morrow. On coming out we found we were minus a couple pairs of gloves, but figuring that Crosby would probably lose more than that on us, we let it go.

With the team (or part of it) in the back end, we chugs over to the New Crosby Hotel and deposits them and then harrasses Felix (the truck) around a while until we figures he's so hot he won't cool off until time for the next game.

En masse we did the rounds of Crosby in an endeavor to find a hot-house or beanery where quantity and not quality predominated. Our finances were getting low and we wanted to be fed at the minimum of expense. We found the Bluebird, which is a place on the main street where grub is cheap and wholesome.

Being provisioned, we goes over to the Spalding, in order to mingle with the elite and so forth. That didn't cost us nothing so we stayed there till time to ramble over to the evening games.

At the high school we finds that prices has been boosted since 5 o'clock. Bennie, Dopey, Fat and Levi squanders their lucre on tickets and goes in but Billy and me decide on inspecting the school, which besides bein' free is an education in itself.

Well, we spend a half an hour or more that way and ends up by walkin' unobtrusively, but unquestioned, into the gym an' occupying positions in the bleachers while we watch the two games of the evening.

Afterward the whole gang goes back to the Spalding. Me and Levi and Bill, however, meanwhile disintegrate from the rest and goes over and sees the show gratis.

Back at the Spalding we consider sleeping in the school or the armory but finally decide that our financial state does not warrant staying over another day. So we starts home.

We made various stops between Crosby and Ironton, once to fix a headlight that had gone out on us, once to try to scrape the ice off the windshield. The sleet which was falling soon covered the windshield again though, so we opened it up all together and with the wind blowing through front to back proceeded home.

The next morning, finding that Brainerd had predominated over Pine River and would enter the finals we again got Felix warmed up and around noon we started for Crosby. There were a few new members in the outfit and some better accommodations, in the form of a mattress and a couple of blankets. It was snowing all the way but we got to our destination quite easily. There being no game until the finals at 8 P. M. we indulged in the famous sport of trying to add a little pep and go to the town.

About five-thirty we tied or the feed-bag at the Bluebird. From there we went to the Spalding and from there to the game. Everyone knows about the game so we will skip over that. Everything over, we went outside and seeing the blizzardly aspect of things, decided we'd better get going immediately, too sweet! So with about 13 kids en-

Our Team

Marshall's a good shot,
And Avery is fast;
Tribur's a good guard,
And is hard to get past.

Lawrenz is a fast one
And he's in most the plays.
And Lowe's pretty clever
In all of his ways.

Fitzharris is wondrous
As he seizes the sphere
And dashes it thro'
The hoop—as we cheer!

Whitlock's a good shot
And is fast with the ball,
And Orth's a good center
Because he's so tall.

But the cause of success
We will now approach.
It was taught to the boys
By our wonderful coach.

xious to get home, we started out but stopped when about two miles out we found nine cars stuck ahead of us. We got out and pushed and pulled them around until they got unstuck. Meanwhile two or three cars arrived behind us. We spent three hours together with a team of mules in snow up to our knees getting the cars out and headed towards Crosby. There originated the more or less famous, "Are we happy?" "Yea!" "Are we down-hearted?" "Nay!" and "Are we cold?" "Yea!"

Finally we got started back to Crosby, caked in snow and ice and nearly frozen but happy just like we said we were. At the Spalding, our haven of refuge, we took off our shoes and stockings and hung them on the radiators, together with the shoes and stockings of others who had tried and lost, some who were still coming singly and in groups.

Later we put 'em back on again and, as the night wore on and the night clerk came on duty, we arranged ourselves as comfortably as we could in the lobby chairs and went to sleep. A couple of hours later Fat, who had gone over to the armory to find lodgings, walks in and right away meanders into a spitoon, causing a bit of noise and excitement, and bringing forth a few scorching words from the night clerk.

The radiators had been turned off about 1 o'clock and it was getting sort of chilly. By the light of the one burning electric bulb over the safe you could see about 20 forms all huddled in overcoats, some reposing in two chairs per person and some in only one, while some reposed neatly under the writing tables along the wall. Anderson was snoring loudly and unmusically while someone else was shifting cuspidors in an effort to gain a better position for his chair. There were vile noises and mutterings from over near the safe. I went to sleep here and when I woke I looked straight into the eye of a cop. All the rest of the guys were sleeping industriously and so he comes over and talks to me. It isn't anything serious though and he goes away pretty soon. When next I opened my eyes I saw Bill worrying the dirt around the lobby floor. He sweeps it all into a big pile in the middle of the floor and leaves it. Pretty soon the people started to come down from upstairs, so we gathered the gang together and went out cruising for food. We failed to find any place open though, so we returned to the hotel. With hunger urging us we made a raid on the hotel dining-room and finding a plate of crackers left over from last night on one table, we felt to and didn't even leave any crumbs. We questioned the waitress as to the price of everything she and we could think of and finally settled on pancakes which would, we figured, give us a lot more enjoyment and a lot more money left on the bank roll after a week's pancake eating.

When we emerged more or less well fed we found the lobby full of people waiting for some way to get home. We thought we would try the roads again but Al Dillan finally convinced us that the train was a better way, so we got Felix and with a mob of kids hanging on, started for Deerwood. Arriving there we put the truck in storage and beat it for the station. Pretty soon we heard a whistle and we all rushed out to find Hank Anderson skidding across the platform towing a young sled behind him and choo-chooing for all he's worth.

Soon after the train did arrive, however, and with Y. M. C. A. Al guaranteeing more than half the fares we rode, in comfort, homeward. And are we still happy? Yea!

The Underwriters

The Underwriters Club was formed By noble Ham and Lim;
They're working hard to help the staff.
And they're getting there, By Jim!

They're publishing this paper,
To see what they can do;
They're adventurous as Columbus was,
In fourteen ninety-two.

Donald McNamara leads the bunch,
He's editor-in-chief;
And when we hand our stories in,
He says, "Oh, that's too brief."

Hurrah! for our advisers,
They tell us right from wrong;
They tell us that our poems are fine,
But that's going pretty strong.

Keepa Tryin'

If you get a slip that's blue,
Keep a tryin'!
If you get a "D" or two,
Keep a tryin'!
"Tain't no use to want an "A,"
All of us weren't made that way.
Grit your teeth an' then just say,
"I'll keep a tryin'!"

If your grades begin to drop,
Keep a tryin'!
Though it's work to reach the top,
Keep a tryin'!
"Spose your average's only "C,"
That is better than a "D."
And if you want to make it "B,"
Just keep a tryin'!"

When it seems that failure's near,
Keep a tryin'!
That is not the time to fear,
Keep a tryin'!
Just make up your mind to win;
Not to try would be a sin.
When you've won, it all has been
"Cause you kept a tryin'!"

Terrible News

Brace yourself; be ready for the worst. I am going to tell you bad news, terrible news. I hate to do it but I feel it is my duty. Are you ready—be prepared, don't faint—a snake was in town the other day. Yes, you have it and if you haven't fainted, please read the explanation of this horrible intrusion.

The creature was enormous (over three blocks long) and had one great silver eye. It first appeared near the high school (in fact, some say in it) about 11:30 o'clock. From there it went through the streets at random. As it glided through the streets it uttered terrible yells and those who saw it fled or were struck dumb with terror and powerless to move. It screamed again and again. After it left the high school and wandered its way writhing and twisting until it was stopped in front of The Dispatch. It twisted, turned and finally wrapped itself up tight and all was in a mass and its one eye gleamed in the sun.

Some one finally became courageous enough to examine it more closely, and lo and behold, it was only a group of high school students who had paraded down to wake up the town with their yells. The eye was the trophy which we had received after copping the trophy at the district tournament.

Tuesday's Mob

Tuesday morning at eight twenty, the office was jammed with students. There were small ones and tall ones, fat ones and thin ones, pushing each other this way and that. "No, she's not here yet," some one would say and the bunch would rush out. Two minutes later the mob gathered again only to be disappointed. Miss Tornstrom was seen at a distance and everybody started toward her. "Now, what will you all have?" she asked in a friendly tone. "A pass!" came a chorus of voices. Miss Tornstrom was kept busy for some time writing passes for the out of town students who had been "snowed in."

Gym

For the last week, Miss Cedarstrand's Physical Education classes have been learning how to play basketball. Miriam Michael directed the classes and everyone enjoyed the playing very much. The hardest is when you have a class of "Freshies" and "Sophs" who have never played before. If you listen to such a game, for listen it is, all you can hear is the whistle. First one forward runs with the ball, then the running center runs over the line, but we get there just the same. Three cheers for Miriam Michael and Miss Cedarstrand.

The Young Budding Hopeful

Oh, say can you see with those orbits of yours,
What so proudly I hail as my dear young moustache?
If you can, I beg you, not to make of it fun;
For it cost me much time, and a good deal of cash.
Every week on the dot, go I to the shave shop.
And that to the world is proof that it's here.
Oh, I see, every day that it grows more and more,
And soon you shall see what a man I will be.

McGRAW IS REASON WHY GIANTS ARE GOOD

PLAYERS DO AS HE TELLS,
HE KNOWS GAME

IRON HAND OF VETERAN MAN-AGER ALWAYS IN EVI-DENCE

CONFIDENT OF BEATING OUT
THE PITTSBURGH
PIRATES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Sarasota, Fla., March 17.—One of the biggest reasons why the New York Giants as a rule are a good ball club, and why they will have an unusually good team this year is John J. McGraw.

The veteran manager of the New York National league club always has a few good ball players around him and the good and not so good do as he tells them and he knows what to tell them.

A few days ago in the training camp the squad was being divided into two teams for a practice session and McGraw turned to Roger Bresnahan, his first lieutenant, and told him to tell Jock Scott, the Carolina farmer, to pitch.

Scott was warming up with a catcher and when Bresnahan told him he was to work four innings, Scott asked, "On which side?"

"For both sides," Bresnahan answered.

"Taint right. They won't give me no chance to bat," he drawled.

"Right or wrong, it goes. Get in there!" the coach replied.

And Scott got in.

It was the same iron hand that forced Scott to sign a contract when he was holding out for more money and it was the same hard rule that kept Frankie Frisch, Freddy Lindstrom and other star players from dictating the terms of their contract.

Of all the star players who wanted more money only Bill Terry, the substitute first baseman, is holding his ground.

"Let him stay where he is. We won't need him," McGraw said.

From the looks of the Giants squad McGraw does not need any more players than he now has on hand with the possible exception of a hustling young catcher and he may have found him in Melvin Ott or MacMullen. McGraw, however, wants to make an outfielder out of Ott.

The team with which McGraw feels confident he will beat out the Pittsburgh Pirates will line up as it started last season and as it would have played through if it had not been wrecked by injuries. There may be only one change, in center field, where Al Tyson, a highly touted rookie, may replace Billy Southworth.

George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom have been decided upon as the infield.

Irish Meusel, Tyson and Pep Young will be the regular outfield with Southworth in reserve.

McGraw bubbles over when he talks about his pitching staff. In Kent Greenfield, Fred Fitzsimmons, Hugh McQuillan, Jock Scott, Art Nehf, Virgil Barnes and Tim McNamara, he claims to have the best pitching staff in years.

If there is any weakness on the club it is behind the plate where the team will have to depend upon two veterans, Frank Snyder and Grover Hartley. There have been reports that McGraw would get Walter Hendland, the holdout catcher of the Phillies, but nothing has come of them.

The military discipline that prevails around the Giant camp is most impressive and it conveys the idea that they have to play ball or else.

"Rabid Fan" Purchases Dubuque Baseball Club

Fred Leiser, for many seasons one of Dubuque's most rabid baseball fans, has taken over the Dubuque baseball club and franchise in the Mississippi Valley league, succeeding Manager Johnny Armstrong as owner. Leiser was one of Armstrong's financial backers when the latter bought "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity's interest in the club in midseason last year. He has secured full control of the club.

With the announcement that he has taken over the club and franchise Leiser stated that Johnny Armstrong has been given his release and will probably play for Oklahoma City in 1926. He also announced that Bill Speas, former manager of the Cedar Rapids team, has been signed to manage the Dubuque club. Speas led two pennant winners while piloting the Cedar Rapids club.

Plan Foreign Tour for Two Young Tennis Stars

Two schoolboy and schoolgirl players will be sent to England next year to play against British champions if plans being considered by several progressive leaders of the United States Lawn Tennis association are looked upon favorably on the other side.

No official mention of this plan to encourage scholastic tennis has been made, but it is likely that it will be mentioned at the annual meeting of the association on February 6.

The association has been very successful in making tennis a universal game among senior players by fostering the Davis cup competitions and by sending older players to foreign countries.

Leaders of the association feel that tennis has been established as a senior international game and that it is now time to give more attention to the juniors and novices.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS IN GOLF PLAY OF JONES-HAGEN CLEARED

It was learned from officials of the National Golf association that before playing Hagen Jones discussed the match with golf officials and was assured that there would be no objection. Golf association officials today expressed confidence that Jones did not violate any amateur requirements.

LEONARD MAY COME OUT OF RETIREMENT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

Benny Leonard's half-promised intention of coming out of retirement this summer will stimulate interest in the lightweight division and invigorate the other classes.

Tex Rickard says that when the heavyweight and lightweight champions are not active, business is slack in every class. Jack Dempsey certainly hasn't been active and Leonard's retirement left the lightweight division in a hole and business has been anything but good.

It is not certain that Dempsey will fight this year and it is not a sure thing that Leonard will return to competition. They both say their plans are dependent upon the public will.

Leonard who is in the middle-west on a vaudeville tour has been telling all who asked him about his plans that he would return to the ring if the public demanded it. The public might not demand it but there are enough customers interested in him to make it worth while for him to return to the ring for a few fights.

It is doubtful that Leonard, if he does come out of retirement, will return to the lightweight class. He would have to fight Rocky Kansas to get back his title and there would be very little money in that fight. It would be more profitable and easier, from a physical standpoint, to return to the welterweight division.

Very little steam would be needed to put over a match between Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, and Leonard for the title and it would mean a lot of money for both.

Even if Leonard does not return to the ring there will be more action in the lightweight class as everyone of the ranking boys in the division wants to get the first shot at Rocky Kansas.

Kansas isn't the sucker that a lot of the boys are taking him for and it isn't any dead cinch that he will be dethroned the first time he meets any of his rivals.

Tex Rickard, if he wants to do business with Kansas, probably will offer him Sammy Mandell, the Rockford star. Rickard rated Mandell as the best lightweight of the year in his 1925 selections and he regards him most highly not only from a fighting standpoint but as a drawing card.

Mandell has beaten practically every lightweight of any class in the entire country and while he may not have the punch that Leonard had in his prime he has plenty of chance to grow into one as he is hardly more than past the voting age.

Rickard would like to use Mandell for several fights this summer in his new Garden. The ventilating system he installed at a cost of $150,000 will make it possible to stage indoor matches through the summer.

The eyes of a lot of managers, who have been putting off matches for the indoor season, were opened recently when the Harry Greb-Tiger Flowers middleweight championship drew more than $105,000.

Her Objection

The doctor was called to attend little Audrey who was ill. He prescribed for her a bottle of medicine which he insisted was pleasant to take. But Audrey steadfastly refused to imbibe it. She smiled slyly at the medicine man and declared: "Aw, you can't fool me, Doc! I am fully aware that it is not as good as peach ice cream."

Power of Attorney

Our word attorney is said to have been derived from the French "tour," meaning turn. An attorney is a person qualified to act for another at law. A person not a member of the legal profession can be empowered by a written authorization to represent another person and act for him with respect to a certain matter or generally.

Harmless Viper

Contrary to superstition regarding this reptile, the spreading viper is harmless. It is not poisonous and the teeth are too short to inflict a wound in case the snake did strike at a person. One of the peculiar habits of this snake is that of feigning death, which it accomplishes by rolling over on its back. When turned over it immediately resumes this absurd position.

THREE HELD FOR ILLEGAL ENTRY

John Viert, Ed. Gladisz And Stephen
Mykysyn Awaiting Federal Warrant

ARRESTED HERE SAT. NIGHT

All Young, Have Police Records, Entered U. S. Through Windsor,
Canada, Year Ago

Three men are being held in the city jail here on a charge of illegal entry into the United States, according to Roy N. Zierke. The men have given their names as John Viert, Ed. Gladisz, and Stephen Mykysyn.

The men were taken up on suspicion on Saturday night, having come to Brainerd by blind baggage. Their evasive answers and conflicting stories caused the police department to hold them, and today an immigration officer from Minneapolis was here to examine them. They are now being held awaiting a federal warrant from Washington.

According to their stories, the men entered the United States about a year ago through Windsor, Canada. Gladisz, by his confession made to local police, served time in the Chicago city jail a short time ago, and all three were held at Milwaukee lately on suspicion. Viert confessed having been confined three times in Winnipeg on minor charges.

They gave their home address as Winnipeg. They all appear to be about 20 or 22 years of age.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Fine Meeting Held at Home of Mrs.
F. W. Wieland, Mrs. C. W.
Hoffman Led Study

The missionary society of the First Congregational church met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. W. Wieland, North 4th street, and all attending received many spiritual, mental, and temporal benefits.

The president, Mrs. Walter Folsom, opened the meeting and took charge of the usual round of business, during which time all joined in singing, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," with accompaniment by Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone. The study hour was in charge of Mrs. C. W. Hoffman, who prefaced the lesson of "Wherefore Pray" by calling attention to prayer as "a duty, a privilege, a challenge."

The members present continued the study throughout the chapter thus completing the series of studies from "Prayer and Missions." In considering prayer as the most productive energy of the human spirit, Mrs. Hoffman told the story of Monica, who prayed all night for her son, and of his later becoming such a wonderful Christian and teacher that to this day all the world knows him as St. Augustine, who is regarded as one of the most profound thinkers among the early writers.

Mrs. Evans read an article on prayer by Rev. Alexander Maitland, D. D., Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Geist presented, "Big brother arrives at the woman's school," by Miss Martha Wiley, Foochow, China. Mrs. Olmsted, in giving current events, touched upon Congregational missionary work in home and foreign lands, regret being manifested at the death of Rev. Watts O. Pye, D. D., at Fenchow, North China.

Several visitors were present among whom were Mrs. Bridgeman, New York, and Mrs. Ella Michael, Brainerd, who spoke of their interest in missions and told something of their experiences in this line of work.

A letter from Miss Wiley, Foochow, China, told of the receipt of the box of scrap-books, sent by the society through Mrs. Hoffman on Nov. 1. To all those who had a part in this work, Miss Wiley writes, "Dear friends, you have made many hearts happier by your generous thought, and may you in turn find an afterglow of Christian joy shining upon you through every day of the year. God bless you every one."

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

AITKIN MEN BOOST SCOUTS

Council Plan

A meeting was held Monday evening at Aitkin, attended by 18 representative business men of that city, to hear the area plan of boy scout council work explained, and at the conclusion of the meeting, the men voted to come into the council, as they felt they needed the assistance that the plan will offer.

F. B. Munson, deputy regional executive, and Perry Newton, Crow Wing council executive, were the speakers of the evening, and presented the matter of the plan.

The men attending the meeting appointed a committee to raise the necessary quota of money, and more than half of the entire amount was raised in cash at the meeting Monday night.

A meeting was held last night at Staples, to be attended by a group of business men there, for a similar purpose. Yesterday the Rotary club appointed a committee to represent the club at the meeting.

A meeting was held at Staples on Wednesday evening, attended by a representative number of business men of that place. The men heard the area plan of scouting explained, and voted to enter the area council.

A district committee will be formed at Staples, similar to the one being formed at Aitkin, and Jesse I. Cross was appointed to head the drive for the necessary finances.

Troop No. 1 of the Staples scouts put on a demonstration before the Masonic meeting at Staples last evening. Assistant scoutmaster N. C. Hurd led the demonstration, in which 24 boys took part.

RURAL PROBLEMS HEARD AT ROTARY

Dr. Malcolm Dana, of Charles City,
Iowa, Delivers Address at Meeting of Club

SEVEN VISITORS PRESENT

Speaker Outlines Need For Betterment of Community Feeling
Between Farm and Town

With 32 millions of Americans living on farms, and 30 millions more living in small towns and villages, country life must be made the peer of any place to live in, and the inhabitants comfortable, prosperous and happy, said Rev. Malcolm Dana, D. D. of Charles City, Ia., at the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday noon. Dr. Dana is director of rural work for the Congregational denomination in the United States.

The address of Dr. Dana came as the conclusion of one of the finest meetings held by the local club for a number of weeks. Several visitors were present, including Perry Newton, guest of S. R. Adair, Rev. E. Jacques, of Emo, Ontario, guest of G. W. Chadbourne, Rev. E. A. Cooke, guest of Dr. R. A. Belse, R. W. Miller of Baltimore, Md., guest of J. F. Cibuzar, G. F. Mitchell, guest of Wm. V. Turcotte, Rev. A. K. Voss, Rotarian of Detroit, guest of Rev. N. P. Olmsted, and Dr. Dana, guest of the club and speaker of the day.

Rev. Jacques spoke for a few minutes on the delights of Canadian hunting, and Rev. Cooke, former member of the Brainerd Rotary club, spoke for a short time. He is leaving the city shortly and bade farewell to the members. John Holvick entertained with a selection on his miniature bagpipe, his solo being well received.

In his address, Dr. Dana expressed the belief that the rural church in America, instead of being on the wane, has a glorious future if it will but face the problems that confront it. Among these problems, said Dr. Dana, are the tremendously large rural population, the abnormal trend away from the farms, the increasing proportion of tenants to owners on farms, and the large number of new Americans settling on our farms.

The farm bloc of 32,000,000 people living in the country has 4,000,000 more children than any similar bloc in this country, said the speaker, who emphasized that the farm and small town are the most desirable places for the rearing of children.

Speaking of the trend away from the farm, Dr. Dana quoted figures which showed that 2,975,000 people left their farms for city life in 1924, with 1,396,000 of them returning after a trial in the city, leaving a loss to the farming population of 600,000 for the year. Even with a 42,000 excess of births over deaths among the rural population, there still remained a net loss of 182,000 population in our rural communities.

Regarding the tenantry of our American farms, the speaker stated that at present 38 per cent of the farms are leased to tenants on a one-year lease basis. The sad fact of the tenantry problem is that the rural church fails to touch this shifting population, which is most often in need of such help as the church is able to render.

Dr. Dana concluded, as a result of these problems, that the right quality of population must be kept on the soil, that the abnormal trend away from the farm must be checked, and that the country must be made the peer of any place to live in.

The speaker presented the idea of a community as being the entire trade zone of a city, not merely the small bounds of the city itself, and appealed to the city residents to engender a real community spirit which shall include the farmer in common representation and mutual participation.

THEIR ADDITION TO MINNEAPOLIS PLANT BRINGS CAPACITY TO 26,000 BARRELS

Minneapolis, March 17.—(UP)—The largest milling transaction in 25 years was complete today with B. B. Sheffield, president of the Commander and four other milling companies of Minnesota, in control of the Larabee Flour Mills Corporation, Kansas City, Mo.

The Larabee Mills are the largest in the southwest with six plants in Missouri and Kansas. Their addition to the Sheffield organization brings its capacity to 26,000 barrels of flour a day.

Consideration of the transfer was not announced but the Larabee properties are said to be valued at more than $6,000,000. A group of Minnesotans who have been associated with Sheffield in former enterprises participated in the purchase.

A holding company to control the several Sheffield companies is being formed under the name of the Commander Corporation. Various milling concerns of the group will continue to operate as separate units. Sheffield will be president of the Holding company.

SEEK TO SHOW BAKING COMPANY CREATED MONOPOLY

New York, March 17.—(UP)—Government counsel in the Federal Trade commission into the affairs of the Continental Baking company today made their first attempt to show that the company had tended to create a monopoly.

George A. Krug, regional manager of the Continental Baking Company, Inc., was called as a witness and was asked questions designed to show that his company competed with other companies which also had been taken over by the Continental company.

Krug admitted that there had been suppression of competition between branches of his company and the Consumers company of New Jersey and the Massachusetts Baking company.

A TEST OF YEARS

Is the Experience of This Brainerd Resident

Are you miserable with an aching back? Feel tired, nervous and run down? Do you have daily headaches, dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then why not take the advice of a Brainerd resident who suffered as you do and found lasting relief by using Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic for the kidneys? Here is a Brainerd case that the years have not changed. Why not profit by it?

Mrs. R. Noakes, 311 9th St. S., says: "My kidneys were disordered. My feet swelled so I couldn't wear my shoes. I also had a tired, depressed feeling but nothing I did helped me until I used Doan's Pills. Four boxes of Doan's cured me."

SEVERAL YEARS LATER Mrs. Noakes said: "The cure I received from using Doan's Pills has been permanent."

UNIVERSITY STUDENT IS ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF EXTORTION

Minneapolis, March 17.—(UP)—J. G. Wendell, University of Minnesota student, was arrested today on a charge of extortion.

H. E. Buffum, a druggist, received a letter a week ago signed "a federal agent" which demanded $1,000 to prevent prosecution for selling alcohol illegally.

Two traps were laid for the author of the letter but both failed. Wendell was arrested at his home on evidence gained by police and postal authorities.

He is said to have confessed.

RIGHT TO PRINT JOHN DOE HEARINGS TO BE ADJUDICATED

Madison, Wis., March 17.—(UP)—The right of Wisconsin newspapers to print the proceedings of any John Doe hearing held by law enforcement authorities may be decided in the state supreme court, it was indicated here today. This indication follows action taken Tuesday by W. T. Evjue, editor of the Madison Capital Times, to dissolve an order by Judge A. C. Hoppmann, enjoining newspapers from printing testimony taken in hearings before him in contempt of court proceedings brought against Evjue.

BEARS HAVE ANOTHER FIELD DAY

New York, March 17.—(UP)—Bears had another field day in today's session in special issues in which uncorrected long accounts remained outstanding. Professionals hoping for just such situations had succeeded in forcing further drastic recessions in Ward Baking B. Gimbel Brothers, National Cloak and Suit, Macy's, May Department Stores, Woolworth, Fleischmann and various other industrial specialties.

Weakness in these stocks finally unsettled the whole market, which was under considerable pressure in the late trading.

Declines in mercantile issues, during the period of prosperity in general business showed that the market was performing its traditional functions of discounting future conditions rather than mirroring the current status of trade.

The market closed lower.

1926 INCOME TAX RETURNS

MINNESOTA'S RECOVERY FROM POST WAR BUSINESS DEPRESSION

St. Paul, Minn., March 17.—(UP)—The last stage of Minnesota's recovery from the post war business depression is reflected in the 1926 income tax returns, internal revenue bureau officials said today.

The income tax collections in Minnesota for the first half of March increased from $4,726,666 in 1925 to $5,246,958 this year, an increase of $520,292, amounting to 12 per cent.

An inspection of the returns shows that most of this increase is due to the recovery of a number of Minnesota business houses and industries which have been operating until last year under the burden of losses incurred during the depression, according to the internal revenue bureau.

WHOLESALE BUTTER AND EGG MAN GETS OFFENDED

Minneapolis, March 17.—(UP)—Herman Klingenberg, a wholesale butter and egg dealer, filed suit in county court here today for $10,000 damages because an Orpheum circuit headliner ridiculed "butter and egg men" in a song.

Frankie Health was the offending comedienne. Her song reflected upon the moral character of butter and egg men as a class, caused ridicule and resulted in mental suffering to the plaintiff, according to the suit.

12 MEN HURT AS TANK OF NAPHTHA EXPLODES

Manitowoc, Wis., March 17.—(UP)—Twelve men were injured, three perhaps fatally, when a tank of naphtha exploded at the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company here today. All the windows of the third floor of the plant were blown out by the blast. The most seriously injured are Alvin Thielen, 17, Leo V. Muck, 30, and Clemens Heinig.

Strength of Hyena's Jaws

The hyena is one of the strongest of mammals, but it is known also as one of the most cowardly. A small dog has been known to send one flying. Only when cornered will it fight. Its jaws are strong enough to crush the shinbone of a horse. In Asia and Africa, where it is most commonly found, the animal is held in contempt because of its skulking habits.

The Best None Too Good

"After many years of stomach suffering I have at last found a medicine for that trouble. But believe me it was a timely find. I couldn't have lasted a great while longer. My stomach would bloat with gas like a barrel and the colics got to be awful. Medicine didn't help much until I got hold of MAYR'S 'One Dose Will Convince,' which did the trick. I am telling everyone about it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere. —Advt.

Smarter Than Samson

You remember Samson's haircut, which proved fatal. That bit of history came near repeating itself in the case of Governor Elizarde of Aguacalientes, Mex. He was proud of his magnificent beard but his enemies tried to put up a job on him and persuaded him that he would be even better looking without it. They expected to subside a barber, who would cut the governor's throat while pretending to shave off his beard. However, that beard had been the pride of the governor's life and he refused to have it removed and so probably saved himself from removal along with his whiskers.—Capper's Weekly.

Just the Same

Musky love scenes are as popular with House Peters as the income tax with the average man.

"But when a man's in love everything looks different to him," patiently explained Director Lynn Reynolds, agent a scene they were about to take.

"Sure," admitted Peters, "and it's the same way when he knocks his head against a lamp post." "All right," retorted Lynn, "Act that way and the scene ought to be good."—Los Angeles Times.
